Listen to us, demand heritage protesters

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

LEADING figures from the horseracing industry joined a protest against a flats development.

Top racehorse trainers Clive Brittain, Luca Cumani, John Gosden, William Haggas and Geoff Wragg joined banner-waving residents opposed to the development in Bury Road, Newmarket.

The protest was organised by Rachel Hood, John Gosden's wife, who formed the Save Historic Newmarket group to fight the development, which has led to the removal of more than 50 trees from what was the garden of a house known as The Gables.

The developer, Newmarket-based Highland, was given planning permission last year for 20 flats after winning an appeal following the failure by Forest Heath District Council, the planning authority, to give a decision within the statutory time limit.

Clive Brittain, whose stables are in Bury Road, said: "It's a disgrace. A road like this is unique. Once you destroy something like this there's nothing left."

Mr Gosden said: "It's vile to see how they have hacked down 52 beautiful trees, including a copper beech which was regarded as a landmark. It's wicked."

Ms Hood said the aim of the campaign was to get David Hughes, boss of Highland, to consider a redesign of the flats, which protesters have compared to a Spanish-style holiday development, and fight any further threats to Newmarket's conservation area.

"Forest Heath District Council have failed to sort this out," she said.

"We want David Hughes to take our views seriously and at least come to some kind of accommodation with us."

Many of the country's leading racehorse trainers have their stables in tree-lined Bury Road, which is also noted for its large Victorian houses.

The house at the centre of the row was previously the subject of a bitter dispute between millionaire racehorse owner Ivan Allan and his ex-girlfriend Glory Clibbery.

It ended in October, 2004, with her and her mother being forcibly evicted from the house by bailiffs after Mr Allan won a court order against them.

Timber firm's five-year expansion plan

A MULTI-MILLION pound development will provide up to 10 more jobs at a timber processing plant.

Ridgeons Forest Products, which supplies Ridgeons builders' merchants throughout East Anglia, is expanding its headquarters at Herringswell, near Newmarket.

A major upgrade will extend the premises with a 28,000 sq ft building with new milling equipment plus 8,500 sq ft of extra warehousing space and additional fleet vehicles.

Mike Cammack, the firm's divisional director, said: "These forward plans are about continued growth within the Ridgeons group, and also taking our long experience and excellent reputation in timber out into a much wider market.

"They are just the start of a five-year expansion plan, which should see our turnover increase significantly, and more employment opportunities arising as our offices and workforce expand to service trade customers across the country."

Mr Cammack added: "Twenty years ago Ridgeons invested in one of the most advanced milling facilities in Europe – they had the vision to lead the way then, and every time technology moves forward, we have stayed at the forefront of adopting it.

"Now again we are leading the way in high technology machining and handling."

The wood processing division is part of the Cambridge-based Ridgeons group.

Gardeners dig in

KEEN gardeners are being invited to a special event promising to answer all their important horticultural questions.

Burwell Garden Club is holding a gardeners' question time on April 21 from 7.30pm. The event will be held at Trinity Church Hall, Burwell.

Peter Jackson from Scotsdales Garden Centre, Cambridge and Ian Hack will be on hand to offer their advice.

Entrance costs £2 but includes free refreshments.

Parents aim to splash out on pool for school

BY Laura Jean Morris
Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

A PRIMARY school is taking the plunge to raise more than £25,000 to re-open its swimming pool.

The outdoor pool at Swaffham Prior Church of England Primary School closed last year due to wear and tear.

But the Friends of Swaffham Prior School (FOSPS) have decided to get the heated pool refurbished rather than see pupils miss out on swimming lessons.

As part of the fundraising efforts, seven parents, led by Helen Oliver, have organised a 300-mile sponsored relay cycle ride from St Austell in Cornwall to Swaffham Prior.

It will start on Saturday, May 17, and they hope to be back in the village on Monday, May 19, having raised at least £4,000.

The pool was one of several facilities put into schools on the edge of the Fens in the 1970s to reduce the risk to children who fell into the areas water-filled ditches.

The school had repaired parts of the pool, but last year decided it could no longer be fixed and closed it.

But fundraising is well under way, according to headteacher Emma Vincent, who said: "FOSPS members were very keen to raise money for a new pool. They felt it was an important resource, not only for swimming lessons, but for school families to use during weekends, holidays and after school in the summer months.

"We were very fortunate to have donations from local businesses to start us off. We have also had cake stalls, non-uniform days, community cafes and Easter egg bingo, all organised by the parents.

"In June the children will be doing a sponsored swim to raise money and we have our summer fair in July. We will also be at Reach Fair on May 5."

For more information on the sponsored cycle call Ms Oliver on (01638) 742484 or to sponsor parents send a cheque to The Friends of Swaffham Prior School, Swaffham Prior Church of England Primary School, Station Road, Swaffham Prior, Cambridgeshire, CB25 0LG.

Police in search for owner after dog attacks boy

A BOY was bitten by a dog as he was walking with his mother on a housing estate.

The eight-year-old suffered bruising in the attack. Now police are appealing for help in tracing the dog and its owner.

The incident happened on Newmarket's Studlands Park estate as the boy and his mother reached a grassed area between Parkers Walk and Pinza Close.

A man was walking two black and white collie-type dogs. One of the dogs broke free and bit the boy on the thigh. His mother scared it off and the man walked away with his animals towards Pinza Close and Hyperion Way.

He is white, about 40 and 5ft 4in. He is of "large build" with dark greying hair and was wearing a maroon polo shirt.

The incident happened at about 6.10pm on Thursday, April 10.

Anyone with information should call Pc Lucy Holman at Newmarket police station (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers 0800 555 111.

Racing leaders' concern over plane proposal

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

LEADERS of the racehorse breeding industry have spoken of their concern about the effects of an aircraft "stacking" zone proposed for the skies above fields near Newmarket.

Jim Paice, South-East Cambridgeshire MP and shadow minister for agriculture and rural affairs, met representatives from stud farms who are worried that the increased noise from airliners waiting to land at Stansted could upset the horses.

Racehorse auctioneers Tattersalls, as well as the Thoroughbred Breeders' Association, the National Stud and Sheikh Mohammed's Darley racehorse breeding operation took part in the meeting at Cheveley Park Stud, near Newmarket.

Afterwards Mr Paice said: "No-one should underestimate the importance of the racing industry to Newmarket in terms of jobs, taxes and local businesses. We have fought off changes to VAT to stop the breeding industry leaving the area and it would be a catastrophe if it now left because of aircraft stacking.

"The fact that NATS (National Air Traffic Services) have not even bothered to consult East Cambridgeshire District Council shows they have made no real study of the area or of the impact of their proposals."

Councillors for South and East Cambridgeshire districts as well as Cambridgeshire County Council took part in the meeting.

Mr Paice is encouraging people to make their comments on the current consultation about the new "stacking" zones by visiting http://www.consultation.nats.co.uk and the Downing Street petitions website http://petitions.pm.gov.uk/ruralpeace/

Church hall welcomes pre-school

A CHURCH hall is welcoming new community groups through its doors six years after its chapel was destroyed in a fire.

Arsonists struck at the Red Lodge Church, near Newmarket, in 2002, leaving the chapel gutted with a hole in the roof.

The hall attached to the chapel is now being revitalised in an attempt to rebuild the church.

Until recently the hall was mainly used for worship, but the congregation was keen to widen the use of the building to help pay for the new chapel and have just welcomed a new pre-school.

The Jumpin' Beans pre-school accommodates up to 16 children every morning and currently has eight pupils, led by Helen Palmer.

Janine Scothern, the church's lay worker said: "We are thrilled to welcome the new group. It is just one of several community groups which are now using our facilities."

Tagging order on card fraud man

Jabes Sevendrarajah was arrested after an assistant at Newmarket's Argos catalogue store became suspicious.

District Judge David Cooper, passing sentence at Bury St Edmunds magistrates' court, told Sevendrarajah: "What you did was shameful. You come from a very good family and you have humiliated them."

The Judge said he did not believe Sevendrarajah's story that he found the card.

"You must think I was born yesterday. You have been up to more mischief," said Judge Cooper.

Sevendrarajah, 22, admitted fraud by using a false credit card to buy a PlayStation3 on April 3.

The Judge banned him from Suffolk for 12 months and ordered that he should be electronically tagged to enforce a curfew to be at his parents' home in Catford, South London, between 10pm and 6am for three months. He was also ordered to pay £60 prosecution costs.

Golden Boy back

A FORMER television wrestler is returning to the scene of one of his bouts – as a singer.

Neil Sands, known as The Golden Boy when he battled with Giant Haystacks, Kendo Nagasaki and Mighty Quinn in the 1970s, is now pursuing a career as a singer with his own show titled Remember When.

He will be appearing at Newmarket's Memorial Hall in the High Street at 2.30pm on Thursday, April 24, with Angie Diggens, a winner of television's Stars in their Eyes, and Gemma Turner, who has appeared in London's West End.

The afternoon show will feature music from the 1940s, 50s and early 60s. Tickets, price £9, are available from the town's tourist information centre (01638) 667200.

TV chef on site

TELEVISION chef Tony Tobin will give a cooking demonstration for prospective house buyers at a new development on Saturday.

The chef, who has appeared on BBC TV's Ready, Steady, Cook, will be making "healthy snacks" in the show home at David Wilson Homes' Kings Meadow development off Duchess Drive, Newmarket, from 11am.

The company is also offering buyers the chance to win an exclusive dinner cooked by the chef in their new home.

For further information call the site sales adviser on (01638) 664301.

Trial date for driver

A DRIVER accused of causing the death of a motorcyclist has been sent for crown court trial.

Philip Milbank made a brief appearance at Bury St Edmunds magistrates' court on Tuesday when the case was formally sent to Ipswich Crown Court.

He is charged with causing the death of motorcyclist Stephen Hockley, 54, in Fordham Road, Newmarket, on Monday, December 3.

Milbank, 33, of Hatchfield Farm Cottage, Fordham Road, is alleged to have driven his Renault Espace across the path of Mr Hockley's motorcycle.

He was a popular local footballer and had played for Newmarket Town and Soham Town Rangers.

Milbank is due to appear at Ipswich Crown Court on Thursday, April 24, for a preliminary hearing.

Club plan

A FORMER Royal British Legion Club is set to be converted into flats.

The club, in Park Lane, Newmarket, closed in October, 2006, due to falling membership.

Now Lynwood Associates have applied to Forest Heath District Council for planning permission to convert it into five flats and two studio apartments.

Chat-up row sparked man's alley attack

A MAN grabbed his girlfriend by the throat and told her: "I'm going to bury you," a court heard.

Roger Bradley, 43, had dragged Sue Hooper by her hair into an alleyway in Newmarket town centre.

He said: "You're dead" as he held her by the throat and kneed her in the groin, prosecutor Rosalind Clark told Bury St Edmunds magistrates' court.

Bradley, of St David flats, Icewell Hill, Newmarket, admitted assault. His case was adjourned until May 13 after District Judge David Cooper asked the probation service to prepare pre-sentence reports.

"It sounds a ferocious primitive type of attack," said Judge Cooper.

Mrs Clark said the couple had been drinking in Newmarket's Wetherspoon's pub on the afternoon of Saturday, April 5.

BY John Goode
Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

Bradley had pulled her hair and accused her of trying to "chat up" one of his friends.

After leaving the pub, Ms Hooper spoke to a friend in the town's Market Square and Bradley accused the friend of "sticking their nose in where it wasn't needed".

Afterwards he threatened to "bury" Ms Hooper and dragged her into the alley before carrying out the assault.

The court heard that Bradley already has a suspended jail sentence for a previous offence. He also had a previous conviction for domestic violence – towards another woman – in 2004.

Jeremy Kendall, defence solicitor, said Bradley, who works at Newmarket's Homebase store, suffered from stress and depression.

Royal honour

A PSYCHIATRIST working in the Newmarket area has been elected as a Fellow of the Royal College of Psychiatrists.

Dr Siri Robling, pictured above, who lives near Newmarket and works with the Newmarket and Thetford mental health teams, is one of three psychiatrists working with Suffolk Mental Health Partnership NHS Trust to have been honoured.

She has been involved in education and training and is the psychiatric link for The Cambridge Graduate Medical School. She has also been working closely with the Newmarket community team in developing new working links with local stakeholders.

Pupils play up in very special year

PUPILS are gearing up for their school's 300th birthday.

Year 5 and 6 pupils at Burrough Green Primary School, near Newmarket, put on a play, Little Red Riding Hood, and will give a repeat performance for the anniversary in July.

Alison Brewin, a parent of two children at the school and community liaison officer, said: "We are hiring out the theatre in Bury St Edmunds for a very special performance by all the children in July to celebrate the 300-year anniversary.

"It is also a special year for us here at the school because our headmaster, Steve Dennington, who has been here for 17 years, retires at the end of the summer term."

Mrs Brewin is urging former pupils or anyone with a connection to the school to come forward with their old pictures and memories for a book she is planning.

Join voices in the wilderness

Sir, My wife and I have recently migrated to Suffolk from south west Essex after more than 30 years witnessing the "development" of our local area.

From what once was a cluster of homesteads, immediately surrounded by natural woodland and areas of countryside, it grew to a village and subsequently part of a large New Town for the benefit of 20th Century civilisation.

Dependent on the viewpoint taken, the pending Thames Gateway development was either the saviour of all things material in life or another planning disaster waiting to happen.

Having moved into our new home in Red Lodge, I was pleased to read the local and master plans for this almost unique area, recognising the gradual occupation over many years as similar to our previous town.

While encouraged by the current well-thought out housing expansions taking place, I wonder if there isn't another similarity with the areas that would be less welcome.

I refer to the piece of land off Turnpike Road, known as Red Lodge Heath.

At first glance it is uninspiring to say the least, having served its useful purpose as a source of sand and gravel extraction for Suffolk and Cambridgeshire.

Venturing on to the heath, on a cold Sunday morning, I came across two bands of local stalwarts celebrating the existence of this area in different ways.

Janine Scothern, a church lay worker, was doing her best to encourage a small group to acknowledge the attributes to be found thereabouts and calling for the survival of all that grows and lives together in this wilderness with a short service. After thanking Janine for her generous thoughts, I went in search of another group that I had been told would be somewhere in the vicinity.

Ignoring the flakes of snow, inviting me to go home for a hot cup of tea, I found an industrious quorum endeavouring to beat the weather by undertaking physical tasks.

This was part of the Red Lodge Heath Conservation Group, presumably the other part had taken heed of the forecast, but I am sure were there in spirit.

It was explained to me that the land, known as Red Lodge Heath, was privately owned, but the conservation group was allowed to visit for the purpose of preservation and to make the area more receptive for walkers.

To this end they tackle the heath on the first Sunday of each month to clear litter, and cut back intrusive bracken, brambles and gorse, which threaten rare plants and insects.

I could not help but feel that this second group were themselves calling for help in the wilderness, but of a more immediate practical nature.

I understand that Natural Britain is supporting the efforts of the local conservation group and the heath has been chosen as a site of Special Scientific Interest.

Thinking back to the local authority plans for Red Lodge, it is easy to surmise that in the not-too-distant future the few green fields we now see surrounding the village will be given over to essential development.

From my experience it appears obvious that now is the time for the residents of Red Lodge to stand with the conservation group in acknowledging the importance of the heath to the future of the village.

It would be a shame if our children or grandchildren were not able to enjoy learning about nature, without having to travel out of the district, and with all the added costs involved.

I know that the Red Lodge Heath Conservation Group would welcome all new members, whether you can undertake physical tasks or not. Your voice will make a difference.

Don't construe united silence as unitary support

Sir, I wonder how many people managed to respond to the recent consultation from Forest Heath District Council (FHDC) relating to the proposal for a unitary authority?

Given that the "invitation" arrived with most people on April 4 and the deadline was April 7, I suspect not many were able to make a return.

Margot Field, (Newmarket Weekly News, Letters, April 10) succinctly expresses the view of many of us.

I personally have been on holiday and missed the whole thing, but, as an ordinary citizen I had heard it "on the wind" that such a move was being talked about.

This means that Cllr Jaggard "bolt from the blue" must have also been on holiday, probable on the planet Mars, for the last two years at least!

The result of this consultation nevertheless, albeit a poor return, might well be construed as a vote in favour.

It might also be that FHDC is taking lessons from Robert Mugabe on these matters. FHDC could well use its time and some of our money to devise some sort of voting system that would ensure that the majority of the local population voted on this, and many other matters, then a representative view could be obtained.

Unitary means "a state of being one, or at one". It seems that unitary in this case means one, or two, or three, maybe even four. Or as Henry Ford put it, you can have any colour you want so long as it's black.

Inspector ends paddock plans

People living at Balaton Place, Newmarket, had opposed the plans to build a complex of 36 retirement flats on a paddock.

English Courtyard Developments, the company that wants to build the flats, appealed against Forest Heath District Council's refusal to grant planning permission and conservation area consent

Now planning inspector Terry Phillimore, who conducted a three-day public inquiry last month, has rejected the company's appeals.

The inquiry, at which the residents were represented by their own legal team, heard that

BY John Goode
Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

racehorse trainer James Fanshawe, whose stables are next to the paddock was keen to use the land for grazing his horses.

Mr Phillimore said the scheme would not preserve or enhance the character of the Newmarket Conservation area and would be detrimental to the horseracing industry.

He said his views were not outweighed by an undertaking by English Courtyard Developments to pay more than £550,000 towards "affordable" housing in Newmarket because none would be provided in the scheme. The flats were expected to sell for around £400,000 each.

The company had also offered a contribution of £13,250 towards local health services which could face increased demand if the flats were built.

The paddock, which covers about three acres, belongs to the Animal Health Trust and was formerly part of the Equine Research Station which closed more than eight years ago when the trust moved all its operations to Kentford.

Although the sale of the land for the development would bring in much-needed cash for the trust, Mr Phillimore said that fact carried "little weight" in considering the land's future use.

Steve Elsom, a director of the Balaton Place Management Company, said: "Naturally we're delighted at the outcome – primarily because it supports the protection of Newmarket's heritage as the home of horseracing.

"We consistently demonstrated there is demand and need for the paddock to stay within the horseracing industry."

Safety fears sparked by street hoardings

ACTION could be taken to remove a "proliferation" of advertising boards from Newmarket High Street.

Cllr Jane Bailey, who chairs the town council's development and planning committee, said the boards obstructed the footpath and posed a danger to pedestrians, particularly those with pushchairs and disabled people.

"Who is responsible if some is injured?" she asked.

Cllr Bailey said Sudbury's council currently made a charge to businesses for taking away "A-boards" which obstruct the pavement.

Newmarket Town Council is considering asking for extra powers to take on responsibility for the issue.

It would need to assume the highway and footpath role from Suffolk County Council, and planning powers from Forest Heath District Council.

"I propose the town council writes to the county council and Forest Heath requesting some sort of delegated powers," she said.

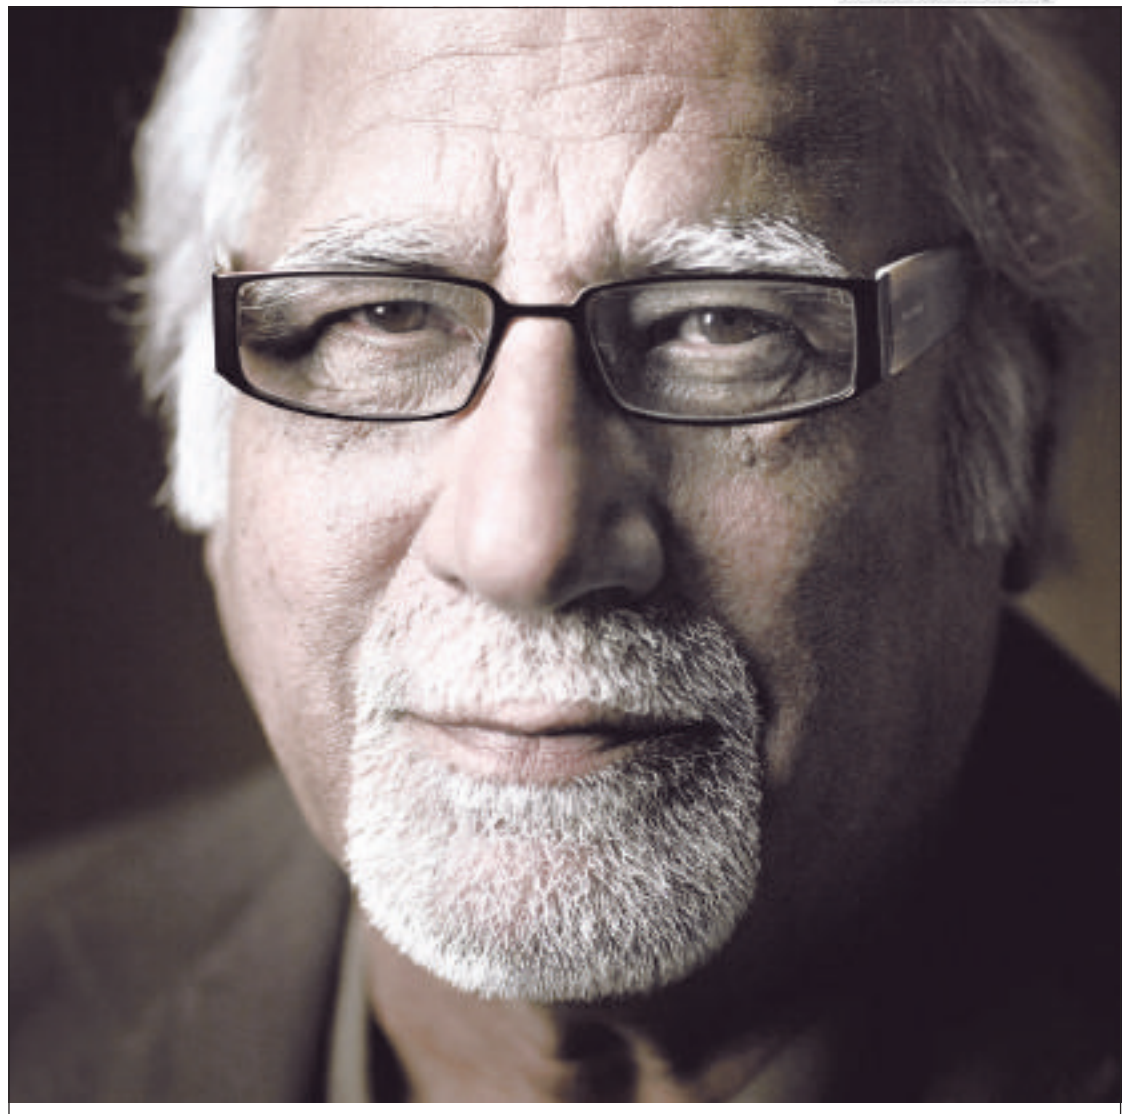

Isabelle Barrett, town clerk, said the council could get powers to deal with the problem through the Cleaner Neighbourhoods Act.

Trims taken

ALL four wheel trims have been stolen from a car parked in a garage block area of a housing estate.

The wheel trims were taken from the silver-coloured Renault Scenic parked off Nimbus Way, on Newmarket's Studlands Park estate between 5pm on Wednesday April 9 and 8am the next day.

Anyone with information should call Pc Lee Sampher at the Newmarket North Safer Neighbourhood Team on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

‘Bizarre’ man is spared jail term

A DRUNK threatened a family out for a Sunday afternoon stroll – and then started hitting himself in the face.

The “bizarre” behaviour of forklift driver Brendan Dunne resulted in him being given a suspended prison sentence and being banned from all the pubs in Exning, where the incident happened.

Dunne, 38, was also ordered to pay £250 compensation to Hannah Rix who he pushed in the chest and tried to punch when she attempted to get him to go home.

Mrs Rix, who was out for a walk with her husband and two children, told police she could hear her daughter screaming as Dunne tried to hit her.

Dunne fell backwards into a hedge and pulled Mrs Rix’s husband with him, prosecutor Rosalind Clark told Bury St Edmunds magistrates’ court.

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

Dunne then staggered off, but returned to the scene and started hitting himself in the face. Police were called and he was later arrested.

District Judge David Cooper said: “It must have been very scary.”

Dunne, of King George Avenue, Exning, admitted affray and faced an immediate jail sentence after the court heard that he had previous convictions for affray and assault.

But his solicitor, Jeremy Kendall, argued that while his behaviour was “bizarre” he did not pose such a serious threat to the public that he needed to go to jail. He said the previous offences of violence were more than 13 years ago.

He said Dunne was getting help for his drinking problem.

Mrs Clark said the incident happened after 4pm on Sunday, November 18.

Mrs Rix and her family had stopped to speak to friends outside the village’s Londis convenience store when they became aware that Dunne was staring at them from the other side of the road.

He approached them shouting and swearing and Mrs Rix stepped between him and their children and offered to help Dunne get home. But he pushed her in the chest and swung a punch at her.

Judge Cooper imposed a 20-week jail sentence, suspended for two years and told Dunne: “You are going to have to cut down on this drinking. It’s just crazy.”

He was also made the subject of supervision by the probation service for 12 months and banned from going in any pub in the village for the same period.

In addition he was ordered to pay £60 prosecution costs.

Popular author thrills fans

CHILDREN’S author Michael Hardcastle read some of his stories to an audience of nearly 40 youngsters at Newmarket.

Mr Hardcastle, a former journalist, has written more than 140 books since 1966 and was made an MBE in 1988.

He was visiting libraries in Newmarket, Mildenhall and Brandon as part of celebrations for National Year of reading in Suffolk.

Many of his books are about football and are particularly popular with boys. Most of the audience at Newmarket were over 10 years old.

He was one of three authors visiting Suffolk during April.

The others were Ian Beck and David Bedford who visited other parts of the county.

Fears grow for doomed post offices

BY Laura Jean Morris

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

WORRIED councillors are taking their concerns about the planned closure of a Newmarket post office to an independent watchdog.

The Exning Road Post Office is due to close as part of the national review of services, which will see the demise of 61 branches in West Suffolk and Norfolk.

Up to 2,500 post offices are threatened with closure by the end of the year across the UK as part of the review of services. An announcement of the services under threat in Cambridgeshire will be made in July.

The Exning Road Post Office is one of eight in West Suffolk facing the axe. Branches in Cowlinge, Barton Mills and Chalkstone in Haverhill are also earmarked for closure.

The watchdog, Postwatch, which is aiding the Post Office's consultation on the controversial closures, contacted Newmarket Town Council asking if members had views on the services in the area the organisation should take into account.

Council members attending a community service meeting said they felt a letter should be sent expressing their disappointment at the closure.

The letter is expected to be sent out after councillors give it the final seal of approval at the next full council meeting on April 28.

A spokesman for the council said: "The recommendation from the community services meeting is that the council should write to Postwatch to express concern about the closure.

"Debate also included discussion that the council should also express its hopes that services at the remaining Newmarket High Street branch will improve following the closure."

Newmarket residents are set to be some of the first in the region to have to count the cost of the cuts.

One of the nearest remaining branches for many will be in Moulton, around three and a half miles east of Newmarket.

The council spokesman said: "Alternative services other than the High Street branch will be a long way out once the Exning Road branch closes, with the Moulton branch one of the closest."

The Save Our Post Offices campaign, launched by our sister paper, the Cambridge Evening News, continues to win support across mid Anglia.

Readers can sign the petition on the website www.cambridge-news.co.uk

New trainer's lucky start

Pat Leech who trains in Kentford, was delighted when Welcome Releaf won the Dine in the Queen Mother Restaurant Median Auction Maiden Stakes at Southwell on April 8.

Mr Leach, who was previously a jump jockey notching up more than 150 race wins, said: "I am delighted at getting my first winner so soon into my career."

Thieves target charity shop's roof

CALLOUS thieves stole roof tiles from a charity shop.

Volunteers at the shop on Market Place, Mildenhall, are counting the cost of the incident, between 7.30pm on Monday, April 7, and 8.30am the following morning, in which guttering was also damaged.

Anyone with information about the incident is asked to call Pc Wayne Borley at Mildenhall police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE Industrial Training was created in December 2007 by Gary Fairbairn and Claire Thrower.

Based at Mereside in Soham its aim is to be a leading training provider in Cambridgeshire providing much needed skills to support the transport and warehouse industry.

The vision of Cambridgeshire Industrial Training is to be a training centre promoting and delivering standards of excellence. Training encourages safe working practices and identifying work place hazards. By training newly skilled operators to drive Health & Safety in to working environment it will help business owners reduce unnecessary costs.

The training centre was awarded the Road Transport Industry Training Board (RTITB) accreditation in January 2008, the standards required are high and the standards achieved were exemplary. The centre has already been recognised as one of only two of its kind in the UK, the other training provider is located in Glasgow.

Big grant to boost playtime

FUN play areas are coming to Cambridgeshire after the county won a massive funding boost.

The county council is to receive £2.5 million for new playgrounds as part of a national £235 million project to promote outdoor activities.

Cambridgeshire has been chosen as one of 20 "play pathfinders" to receive the extra funding for new facilities.

The cash will go towards a flagship supervised adventure playground, with around 30 smaller play facilities to be built around the county.

In an exclusive interview with our sister paper, the News, Andy Burnham, Culture, Media and Sport Secretary, said: "It will bring a lot of benefits and significant funding to Cambridgeshire. The decision on which areas would be chosen as pathfinders was based on which councils were ready to deliver, and deliver quickly."

He promised to investigate whether local authorities were being overcautious with play equipment, and to support parents in "balancing risk against opportunity".

Hospital boss hits out at 'unjust' congestion charge

BY John Morgan
Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

CANCER patients needing chemotherapy could be among those hardest hit by the Cambridge congestion charge, Addenbrooke's Hospital's boss has warned.

Gareth Goodier, chief executive of Cambridge University Hospitals NHS Trust, has written a "strongly-worded" letter to Cambridgeshire County Council opposing initial plans which include the hospital in the charging zone.

That could mean patients, visitors and staff arriving between 7.30am and 9.30am being hit by a daily charge of between £3 and £5 – on top of parking fees at the hospital which can cost visitors up to £15.

Mr Goodier has warned Brian Smith, the council's deputy chief executive of environment and community services, that the charge would be "prohibitively expensive" for patients undergoing chemotherapy and dialysis – treatments which require regular visits to hospital.

■ ADDENBROOKE'S HOSPITAL . . . its chief executive, Gareth Goodier, has warned it should not be included in the congestion charge zone because of the expense it would pose for patients who have to visit often.

Mr Goodier told our sister paper, the News, that his letter expressed the worries of staff, patients and visitors. He said: "The overwhelming feedback we've received opposes the proposal and calls for the hospital to be outside the congestion charging zone."

Dr Mary Archer, chairman of the trust, told a recent governors' meeting that the letter to Mr Smith had been "strongly-worded".

She said: "It makes no sense for patients, at the very least, to fall within the congestion charge zone."

The council recently completed a public consultation on the proposals, aimed at reducing congestion in conjunction with improvements in public transport. It says no final decisions have been made.

Mr Goodier said he recognises the need to address congestion in Cambridge, but added: "Patients and staff often cannot choose when to travel to hospital and it would be unrealistic, and clinically impossible, to adjust our operating hours to accommodate a congestion charge.

"Many patients undergo a series of treatments, like chemotherapy and dialysis, and have to make frequent, unavoidable trips to hospital. The charge would be prohibitively expensive for this group of patients."

Councillor Geoff Heathcock, who represents Queen Edith's and is Liberal Democrat spokesman for health on Cambridgeshire County Council, believes the hospital should not be in the zone.

He said: "There is no justice in a situation where people having a rough time are given more things to worry about."

A county council spokesman said: "The views of Addenbrooke's, together with all the results from this consultation, will be taken into consideration."

Have say on depot scheme

PEOPLE are being asked for their views on plans for a new waste transfer station and highways depot.

Cambridgeshire County Council is consulting on the scheme, which would enable waste collected from Fenland to be "bulked up" before being transported for reprocessing at a plant in Waterbeach.

The new facility, to be built on the Trading Park Industrial Estate in March, could also provide a site for a highways depot.

County councillor Mac McGuire, lead member for highways and access, said: "This would mean that, for the first time, crucial Fenland highways services will be located in the same place.

"This will bring real benefits to the efficiency of essential services like winter gritting and highways maintenance, and I would urge local people to get involved in what is being proposed."

Drivers still using mobiles at wheel and flouting law

BY Raymond Brown
Email: editorial@
newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

■ DANGEROUS HABIT . . . motorists are ignoring the law against using mobile phones while driving, even though it has been toughened up.

A 12-DAY crackdown by police snared a shocking 200 motorists using a mobile phone while driving.

The alarming figure points to a huge increase in the number of drivers flouting the law, which has already been toughened.

Taken over a year as an average it would mean that more than 6,000 people could be putting lives in danger on the roads in Cambridgeshire.

Last year officers caught more than 2,000 people flouting the law behind the wheel.

The action was part of work to crack down on those who continue to ignore the laws in relation to mobile phones.

Officers used unmarked cars and police motorbikes to target people breaking the law.

Last month officers conducting plain vehicle and marked motorbike patrols across the county caught 210 motorists using a hand-held mobile phone while driving.

Sergeant Robin Marshall said: "It is disappointing to catch so many motorists breaking the law in such a small space of time.

"It only takes a few seconds distraction from a mobile to cause a collision, which can have fatal consequences."

Road safety officer Pc Tony Barrios added: "Cambridgeshire Constabulary takes these offences extremely seriously and will continue with our robust enforcement of the law. Roads can be a dangerous place when the law is not respected and adhered to.

"If we are to reduce the number of fatalities and casualties on the county's roads it is vital people comply with the law."

The alarming figures come days after a lorry driver who was distracted while using a hands-free mobile phone when he killed a cyclist escaped with a driving ban.

Road safety campaigners are outraged after Robert Field, 54, was handed a 12-month ban. He was found guilty of driving without due care and attention at Cambridge Magistrates' Court last Wednesday.

Impington grandmother and librarian Mary Scott, 60, died "instantly" when her bicycle was struck by Field's lorry.

Last year, 2,010 people were caught using a hand-held mobile phone while driving.

Since February 2007, motorists caught using a hand-held mobile phone while driving received a £60 fine and three points on their licence.

During the operation a number of other offences were identified, including 17 motorists caught speeding, seven vehicles found to have no MOT and 37 people were caught not wearing a seatbelt."

Volunteers snap up speed camera scheme

BY Jack Grove

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

VILLAGERS are being armed with "community speed cameras" – the latest weapons in the war against Cambridgeshire's speeding motorists.

Hand-held devices are to be distributed across the county, enabling residents to take direct action against speeding vehicles for the first time.

People will use the guns to log speeds and then note down registration numbers with information being passed on to the police.

A three-month pilot of Speedwatch has already started in Soham and nearby villages, and a county-wide scheme will be rolled out from the end of May.

Inspector Alan Savill, who set up the pilot project, said: "This is a great opportunity for the community to get involved in the policing of their roads.

"This initiative is about reducing speed on the district's roads and empowering communities to influence the speed of vehicles and promote good driver behaviour."

The county-wide Speedwatch scheme will cost around £110,000 over the next three years and will see cameras handed out to residents in Cambridgeshire's worst speeding hotspots.

Matt Deacon, road safety partnership co-ordinator for Cambridgeshire County Council, said: "I get very frustrated seeing vehicles speeding through my village and I know other people feel the same.

"This will give people the chance to do something about it.

"The scheme will focus on the places where we know there is a problem with speeding and we've had lots of people expressing an interest in using the camera from all across Cambridgeshire."

The Government-funded scheme will see the appointment of a Speedwatch co-ordinator, while £38,000 has already been spent on 10 hand-held cameras.

Chairman of the Soham and East Neighbourhood Panel Derrick Beckett, was delighted to see the start of the scheme, which started on Tuesday in Soham, Chippenham, Wickham, Fordham, Isleham, Kennett and Snailwell.

He said: "I am delighted to see the development of the Speedwatch initiative, which was prompted by residents concerns voiced at the neighbourhood panel.

"This is a testament to the commitment of parish councils in demanding a response to a critical issue, and an excellent example of the agencies working with the community they serve."

Schools dish up bid for wireless internet

BY Laura Jean Morris

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

TWO schools could soon have telecommunications dishes fitted to their roofs.

If planning permission is granted for the move, the dishes will allow the Paddocks Primary School and the Scaltback Middle School in Newmarket to "wirelessly" connect to high-speed internet services.

The planning applications come in the middle of a row over a mobile phone mast put up outside Newmarket College and next to the leisure centre on Exning Road.

It was put up after Forest Heath District Council failed to reply to a planning application from telephone company O_2 within 56 days, giving the firm the right to go ahead with the controversial work.

Councillors are now asking for the mast to be removed.

Suffolk County Council (SCC) has put forward the applications for permission to erect the dishes to Forest Health District Council.

The deadline for comments regarding the dish and five-metre-long pole proposed for the Paddocks is April 25 and, for the three dishes planned for Scaltback, April 25.

A spokesman for SCC said: "Wireless technology is now vital to schools in Suffolk, many of which are in rural locations, as much of the National Curriculum is delivered using the internet.

"Suffolk already has an educational wireless wide area network connection across the region, with the majority of schools already connected wirelessly.

"More schools are being added to the network to enable access to the same educational applications and content."

Cllr Bill Burch, Mayor of Newmarket, said: "We are still doing all we can to try to get the Exning Road mast removed.

"These new dishes to be put on schools are receivers so we would not be so worried about those, but the mast outside the college is much more of a concern and very ugly."

The SCC spokesman was keen to point out that the dishes proposed for Scaltback Middle School and the Paddocks Primary School were similar to the technology used in most homes for accessing wireless broadband internet services.

The spokesman said: "There are no health risks associated with this type of technology, in fact the same technology is used in many homes."

Business park's opening prompts job hopes

A NEW business park has opened this week on the outskirts of Newmarket.

The Kings Warren Business Park has opened after a new roundabout and improved road layout was completed.

Stationary firm John Dickinson, best known for its Basildon Bond and Oxford Black 'n Red brands, will move from its current headquarters in Sawston to be the main occupier at the new site.

The company's new headquarters will comprise of a 108,000 sq ft office building and warehouse.

Philip Beer, the managing director of John Dickinson, said: "We are delighted the new access to the business park is opening ahead of schedule and with the opening of our new warehouse facility now very close, we are actively in the process of seeking staff from the surrounding area."

Ben Coles, director at Wrenbridge, the company responsible for building the business park, said: "The new access and infrastructure basically kick-starts the whole business park.

"With John Dickinson acting as the anchor tenant and enabling the creation of the road network for the park, it provides a real opportunity to attract local and national occupiers over the course of the next twelve months."

Glass strike

TWO windows at a house in Cobblers Court, Mildenhall, were broken in the early hours of April 6.

The rear lights of a car parked outside the property were also damaged between 1.35 and 1.40am.

Police are asking any residents with information relating to the damage to contact Pc Luke Swain on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

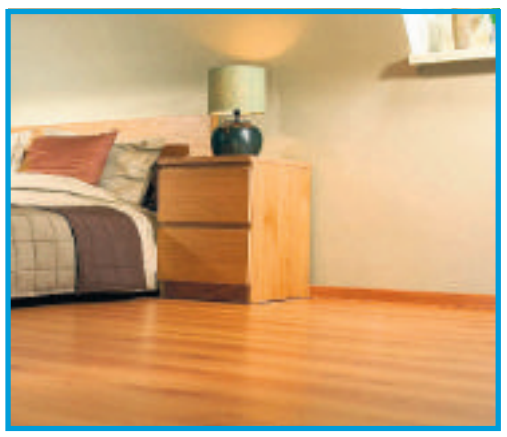

Car scratch

VANDALS scratched the paintwork on a red Hyundai Getz while the car was parked in Newmarket.

The vehicle was damaged between 1.55pm and 2.15pm on the High Street on March 29.

Anyone with information should call Pc Lucy Holman (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Chart topper

SIXTIES singer and Great Escape actor John Leyton will be performing at Cambridge City football ground on Milton Road on Saturday.

He hit number one in the charts with his 1961 single Johnny Remember Me and had further hits with Wild Wind and Son This Is She. He also starred in several films and TV series of the era, including The Great Escape and Von Ryan's Express with Frank Sinatra.

Tickets are £12.50. To book call (01223) 357973.

Black debut

NEO-CLASSICAL ballet company Ballet Black return to the Cambridge Arts Theatre on Sunday.

The company – which features black and Asian dancers – sold out the venue in February last year and this time around the evening will feature premieres of three new pieces by choreographers Liam Scarlett, Shobana Jeyasingh and Richard Alston.

The show is at 7.45pm and tickets are £10-£20. To book call (01223) 511511.

On the up . . .

MANCUNIAN rockers The Courteeners play The Junction in Cambridge next Tuesday.

The band have been the name on the lips of magazine and radio tastemakers for the past six months and this month released their debut album, St Jude.

Super screenings ahead at film fest

THE second Cambridge International Super 8 Film Festival gets rolling on Thursday, April 24 for three days.

The event will feature short films made by filmmakers from across the world who have all chosen to work with the Super 8 film reels which first found popularity nearly 40 years ago when they were often used to make home movies.

"Super 8 isn't just about all the nice bright colours sung about in the Paul Simon song or family footage of the Sixties and Seventies," says festival organiser, Thierry Bonnaud.

"The format has undergone a creative renaissance in the past five years. Two hundred short films of all genres – from animation to fiction, documentary and experimental – have been submitted from filmmakers world wide."

The festival will feature a retrospective of Hungarian films and a live performance by the Szeged Super 8 group.

It starts at St Paul's Church on Hills Road on the Thursday at 8pm and continues on Friday, April 25 from 7pm at the University Sports and Social Club on Mill Lane. The same venue will feature screenings all day from 3pm on Saturday, April 26. For full details visit www.cambridge-super8.org

Brand spanking new and it's100pc Fratelli!

By Nik Shelton

YOU would have thought that if Apple had used one of your songs to hawk their wares, you'd at least get a free goodie bag.

When we caught up with a bleary-eyed Barry Fratelli, bassist with Glaswegian rockers The Fratellis, whose song Flathead appeared in a recent iPod ad, for a mid-morning chat it's one of the ubiquitous gadget firm's products rather than any hard partying that has done its damage.

"I've been in bed all morning," he admits. "I got an iPhone yesterday and I was up until five in the morning playing with it.

"I had to pay for it. I thought, considering we'd done an Apple advert I might at least get a tenner off or something, but it wasn't to be."

The fact that admen are picking the band to give their products added youth cachet proves how very "now" the threesome are. And it's the same reason why they were invited on MTV's inaugural Spanking New Music Tour, which comes to The Junction in Cambridge for a two-nighter on Sunday, April 27. The Sunday date also features Tings Tings and Alphabeat. The following night's line-up will feature Pigeon Detectives, The Metros and The Rascals.

■ ON TOUR . . . The Fratellis come to Cambridge later this month as part of the Spanking New Music Tour. CP.

It's the latest in a rash of package tours featuring the very hippest in indie, punk and dance, and harks back to the days when groups would all jump on a tour bus together to spread the word.

"It's good but there's definitely a quality aspect," Barry warns. "With the Motown package tours in the 60s and the Two Tone package tours of the Eighties every band on them was wicked but I don't know if you could say that about the ones they throw out these days.

"I haven't heard both the bands on the nights with us. Maybe if I had I would have started moaning already. But then again they may be great. That's the joy of going to a gig I guess."

The band's debut release, Costello Music, reached number two in the album charts and cemented their name as ones to watch. On this tour the band will be unveiling some of the tracks from the follow up album, Here We Stand, which is set for release in the summer.

"By the time Costello Music was released we were already a completely different band from the one on that album," Barry says

"It's very different, but it's not that different that you wouldn't recognise it was us. It's the Fratellis but 100 per cent better."

Looking back on a year to remember

TO SAY Scouting for Girls have had an eventful year would be a spectacular understatement.

The Surrey-based, piano-thumping good-time tunesmiths are still wandering around in a daze after their self-titled debut album went to number one and their first major UK tour sold out across the country.

The success of the album was in large part due to the enormous amount of play the uber-catchy single She's So Lovely has been getting on TV and radio.

PROPERTY

Exceptional former school

THIS stunning Victorian Grade-II listed former school, with adjoining headmaster's house, is in Mill Road in the village of Ashley.
A guide price of £1.1 million is invited for the property, which has been beautifully renovated to provide a stunning contemporary interior.
Exceptional and unique, the property has accommodation of enormous character with a superb modern specification.
It includes an entrance hall, reception hall, dining room, drawing room, sitting room, family/play room, study, kitchen/breakfast room, utility room, cloakroom, galleried landing, five bedrooms, one with dressing room, and two impressively-fitted bath and shower rooms.
Outside, the garden enjoys views over studland, and is mainly laid to lawn with a large terrace and a variety of shrubs, as well as a children's play area.
To the front is a block-paved driveway providing ample off-road parking, and access to a two-bay car port.

Vantage ideal for drop-top fun

FIRST DRIVE

Handling is just the best

ADAM SWIFT

THE current range of Aston Martins share an analogous design language and that's a very good thing – because as a result any one of them could claim to be the world's most beautiful car.

Whether it's a V8 Vantage Coupe, DB9 or DBS, there is little to be found on the road that comes close to matching their understated yet intense visual impact.

Topless cars invariably weigh more than their coupe siblings, and the Vantage Roadster is no exception, although a gain of 80kg is relatively minimal. At 1,710kg (amazingly a Jaguar XKR Convertible is almost exactly the same at 1,715kg) the Roadster is not exactly anorexic, but then the V8 engine sitting well behind the front axle does its best to compensate. And what an engine. You know you're in for a treat when you push the trademark glass starter button and eight cylinders answer with a rush of revs and a gorgeous bark from the exhaust system. But find the space to accelerate and at just over 4,000rpm the engine's rather refined character transforms, as if by magic (but actually thanks to a bypass valve), into something you would expect straight out of a NASCAR racer. It is utterly addictive and encourages you to keep the engine spinning faster than is absolutely necessary, just for another aural treat.

It is fitting that you also have to work the engine to get the best out of it, as both power and torque levels peak in the sky – maximum torque arrives at an unusually high 5,000rpm, while maximum power finally gatecrashes proceedings at a stratospheric 7,000rpm. In a world where most self-respecting V8s have at least 400bhp – Jag's XKR gets 420bhp – the Aston is perhaps a teensy bit wanting, but winning Top Trumps is not what it's all about. For a British sports car to gain proper recognition it needs to handle, and that's where Aston's baby really scores.

■ THE ASTON MARTIN VANTAGE . . . aural treat.

For a soft top the body is exceptionally rigid with no judder or shake to speak of, and this, combined with fully independent double wishbone suspension, translates into excellent handling. The chassis provides massive traction, no doubt helped by rear wheels that are 27.5cm wide, and despite absorbing bumps well, the Roadster is remarkably roll-free under hard cornering. There are no nasty rear-wheel-drive surprises either. This car has been set up to take care of those who prefer posing hard to driving hard, and will safely understeer if your nerve manages to overcome the Roadster's substantial reserves of grip.

BASICALLY...

The Vantage Roadster is a car that goes as well as it looks. And in this case that really is saying something.

Top £1,000 used car bargains

■ ROVER 25 . . . well-built family wheels.

■ MAZDA 626 . . . loads of space and practicality if you don't need prestige.

BUYER advice website UsedCarExpert.com has been looking at cars for around £1,000.

"Every time you open the paper at the moment, there is yet more analysis of troubles in the financial markets," says spokesman Matt Tumbridge.

"Property prices look shaky, too, and there is some talk of a recession. So it is comforting to know that if you find yourself needing to make cutbacks, you can find reliable wheels for hardly any money," he adds

"I did a search through AutoTrader magazine, and found three cars – an executive motor, a family vehicle, and city wheels – that are all just £1,000, but were being sold with MoT and road tax on them. Motoring doesn't get cheaper than this," Tumbridge says.

Here's the selection:

■ Mazda 626 (1997-2002) – "The 626 represents a dependable range of cars for less," says Tumbridge. "Saloons, estates, and hatchbacks all depreciate fast, and offer great value for those who want practicality, not image."

Most economical model is the 2.0TD, returning 54.3mpg overall, and best used buy is the 2.0 GXi.

UsedCarExpert.com lists 13 fault checks, and the real example spotted was a 1996 P Reg Mazda 626 1.8i Gxi, with 42,000 miles, for £1,000.

■ Rover 25 (1999-2005) – "These are well-built, and a sensational value family hatch," reckons Tumbridge. "Cramped in the back, rivals are better, but they're good to drive with some great engine options."

Most economical version is the 2.0D, with a 55.4mpg combined fuel average, and best used buy, is the 1.6i L.

UsedCarExpert.com buyers lists 16 pre-buy checks, and the actual example Tumbridge homed in on was a Rover 216Si, R reg, with 54,000 miles, which was priced at £1,000.

■ Vauxhall Corsa (1993-2003) – "Cheap to buy and run, and easy to own, it was much improved from 2000," asserts Tumbridge. "Because there are huge numbers around, prices can be temptingly low."

Most economical model is the 1.7Dti, with a 60.1mpg average, and best used buy is cited as the 1.2 16-valve 5-door Elegance.

UsedCar Expert.com buyers has 25 fault checks listed online, and the real example highlighted was a 1999 Vauxhall Corsa 1.2 Breeze, with 39,000 miles, also at £1,000.

■ VAUXHALL CORSA . . . plenty around.

Volvo sees result of green thinking

New models 85% recyclable, 95% recoverable

VOLVO – well known for its commitment to safety – has released facts showing its focus on the environment. Realising that creating an eco-friendly car is far more than simply lowering its CO2 emissions levels, Volvo has declared that all new models are 85 per cent recyclable and 95 per cent recoverable.

The Swedish firm's commitment to reducing its carbon footprint must be applauded as the "Clean Inside and Out" programme takes in all aspects of the manufacturers environmental impact.

Volvo is well ahead of schedule in terms of a recent European Commission study, stating that all new vehicles should be 85 per cent recyclable or reusable by 2015. Volvo reached this figure six years ago, back in 2002.

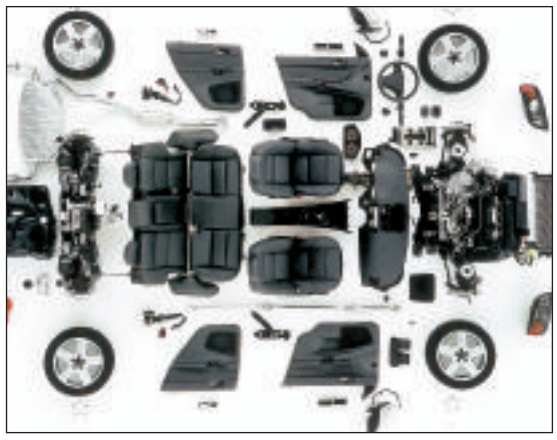

The reuse and recycling of materials has been extensively thought about and Volvo uses recycled steel, iron, aluminium and other metals throughout its range. Materials from catalytic converters are reused in new catalysts and even details as small as plastic battery covers have been considered with this example being recycled for use in the lining of wheel arches.

Volvo has looked further than just the cars too. The manufacturer of Volvo vehicles is climate-neutral and it's the result of years of alternative energy use. In the early 1980s, Volvo started using residual heat from nearby refineries to heat its Torslanda factory in Sweden. Later that decade, natural gas was used to heat factories in Sweden and Belgium. Most importantly, as of 2008, Volvo's European manufacturing plants only use green electricity, supplied by hydro-electric stations. This green energy use is set to be expanded as Volvo is analysing the use of other energy sources such as biogas and wind power in vehicle production.

Vehicles and factories can hold all sorts of harmful materials and Volvo has gone about cutting these out as much as possible. Lead, mercury, cadmium and chromium have all been banished from Volvo models and changes to processes such as the tanning procedure for leather have been undertaken to remove harmful substances. All materials used in the interior meet the strict Oeko-Tex international standard to make sure they are free from hazardous substances and are hypo-allergenic.

Finally, Volvo's green commitment continues to its aftercare packages. Environmental information is available to customers for all its model variants. This provides data on the car's environmental impact for its whole life – including production, use and disposal. When it comes to servicing or repairing vehicles, Volvo has an exchange programme set up with its dealers. The system collects used parts from dealerships and remanufactures them to the same quality as new parts. These, along with reconditioned parts, are made available to buy and come with a Volvo-approved parts guarantee.

More information on Volvo's commitment to the environment can be found at www.volvocars.com

■ CLEAN MACHINE . . . Volvo's factory methods mean all these parts of one of its cars are recyclable.

Help for tutors and new learner drivers

GOING for practice drives with a learner driver can be a stressful experience for both the supervisor and the trainee.

The former may well be an experienced driver, but do most parents know how to explain the workings of the clutch to their teenager? What about the modern techniques for changing gears? These are skills experienced drivers take for granted, but which learner drivers still need to master.

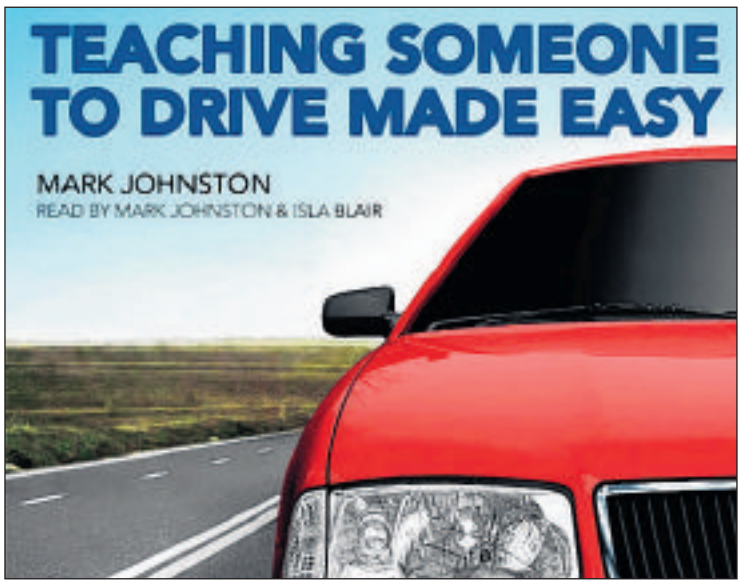

The CDs are in bite-sized tracks that you play in the car, with a trainee, before the day's drive. No theory, no books, no watching DVDs of someone else driving. This is an in-car, practical course designed to get supervisor and trainee on the road.

■ Trainees can take as much time as they need listening to the CD

■ Teaching Some To Drive Made Easy will leave prospective drivers prepared for their first driving lesson

Mark Johnston is a qualified driving instructor with a vast amount of teaching experience. Teaching Someone to Drive Made Easy is available as two CDS; priced at £13, and is also available to download.

Details on (01256) 464481.

■ AID . . . learner pack is boost to those who want to pass test.

Consumer Advice - A Pet is a Lifetime Commitment

pet ADVERTISING ADVISORY GROUP

Never Buy On Impulse

Dogs and Cats can live 15-20 years.
Rabbits can live 7-10 years or longer.
Will you be there for them - through marriage, divorce, having babies, moving house and holidays away?

Have you considered:
- Do you have the time to give your pet the exercise, mental stimulation, training and attention it needs?
- Dogs and cats cost around £500-£1000 a year to keep.
- If this is a pet for the children, who will look after the animal when the children leave home?

Note: Under the Animal Welfare Act 2006 a pet owner has a legal duty to ensure the welfare of his animal(s).

If you decide to buy a pet we would always recommend the following:
- Please consider contacting your local animal rescue/rehoming centre. There are thousands of healthy, loving animals all over the UK who need a home.
- Research before you buy. Be sure you understand the needs of the pet you are interested in. Check that your lifestyle and environment suit the animal.
- When buying kittens and puppies, insist on seeing the mother with the litter. Check that the facilities are clean and the animals appear alert and healthy. You should be able to handle them freely under supervision. Make sure your chosen pet is old enough to leave its mother.
- Ensure that the animal you are buying is healthy and free from signs of injury or disease. Always ask for a copy of its medical records including vaccination certificate and records of worming and flea treatment.
- Be prepared to wait; the right pet is worth waiting for!

Train as a Home Inspector

HIT

Up to 2 million properties being sold every year now need Home Information Packs which must include an Energy Assessment carried out by a newly trained Home Inspector or Energy Assessor. Thousands more of these new professionals will be needed later this year for the rental sector when Government requires around 1.6 million properties being let in the first year to also have Energy Assessments.

This creates new and interesting career opportunities and we require people to train now as Home Inspectors in their spare time. No previous surveying experience is required.

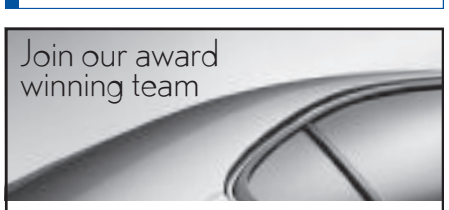

Thousands more new Home Inspectors will also be needed if Government confirm Packs must include a currently optional Home Condition Report.

Current fee earning expectations are £60 to £80 for Energy Assessments and £200 to £300 for Home Condition Reports with up to 15 Assessments or 6 Reports estimated to be carried out in a week, depending on size of properties and supply.

Applicants should apply now for a limited number of training places at the Government's ABBE approved centres of Home Inspector Training near London and in Bristol, Birmingham and Manchester. (4-night accommodation package advice if required.) The Course consists mainly of 7 separately bookable one-week modules, taken over up to 10 months, if this long is needed, and is designed to enable most people to train around their current commitments.

On qualifying you are awarded the ABBE Home Inspector Diploma required by Government and are able to carry out Assessments and Reports on your own, for other Pack Providers or, depending on the market share gained, for our own in-house Pack Provider in return for receiving a course subsidy. Once qualified, additional courses with qualifications now being researched may be available to carry out property valuations, Energy Assessments for commercial properties and flood and fire risk assessments to provide additional income streams.

Savills is a leading International Property Services Group with an extensive network of offices throughout the UK, mainland Europe, Asia Pacific and Africa.

The Transport Planning team has been set up in Cambridge to work alongside our group of Town Planners and Urban Design specialists. Our strategic plan is to expand the team to support an established and increasing portfolio of development planning projects.

SENIOR TRANSPORT PLANNER

We are seeking a Transport Planner who has a good level of knowledge of the industry. The type of projects range from major urban regeneration schemes, mixed-use developments, urban extensions and residential developments.

This is a fee earning role, working alongside the current team. The successful candidate will be responsible for all aspects of Transport Planning, including the preparation of Transport Assessments, Transport Statements, Travel Plans, and Access Strategies. Enthusiasm, self-motivation, as well as a proven track record are all key attributes for this role.

CAD TECHNICIAN

The successful candidate will assist in the design of various highway schemes covering a wide range of exciting projects, from small residential developments through to large mixed-use retail and business parks.

Experience with Auto CAD is essential. Knowledge of SketchUp and Photoshop is desirable, but some training may be available, if required. The ideal candidate will be able to use their own initiative, demonstrate design skills and also be capable of working with minimum supervision.

Both vacancies offer exciting opportunities to join a small but rapidly expanding team of Transport Planners. We offer excellent prospects for progression within the company, along with competitive salaries based on qualifications and experience with benefits including an annual bonus scheme.

UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

Research Assistant

Strangeway's Research Laboratory
£22,332 - £25,135 pa
Limit of tenure: 1 year

EPIC-Norfolk is the UK arm of a European wide programme looking at the connection between diet and cancer in over 500,000 people in ten different European countries. Fifteen years after our first study, we are revisiting our existing cohort for a Third Health Check to follow-up on their health and to focus on aspects of ageing and visual health.

You will co-ordinate the day-to-day running of the EPIC Third Health Check from the Cambridge office. The role includes acting as the first line of contact for the whole of the EPIC-Norfolk group, managing recruitment of participants, organising, writing and maintaining study documentation and ensuring the adherence to study procedures, and preliminary and ongoing data cleaning and data analysis of the study while in progress. You will be required to attend admin and data meetings in Cambridge and travel to Norwich regularly for clinic progress meetings.

You will be a first-rate communicator with exemplary organisational and time-keeping skills, with excellent attention to detail. You must be pro-active, well motivated with a keen interest in research. You must be flexible with the ability to handle varied tasks with varied skills and be able to work independently. Good computer skills, particularly use of Microsoft Office is essential.

Part-time hours of a minimum of 30 hours considered.

INTERNET CONTENT ANALYST

INTERNET WATCH FOUNDATION

WHO WE ARE:

The Internet Watch Foundation (IWF) works in partnership with the police, Government, child protection agencies, the Internet industry and the public to minimise the availability of potentially illegal online content, particularly indecent images of children. We operate the only recognised non statutory 'Hotline' in the UK for the public and IT professionals to report their inadvertent exposure to online material within our remit. We provide a 'notice and take-down' service to all communication service providers in the UK and we work with law enforcement agencies at home and Hotlines abroad to remove child sexual abuse content from the Internet.

WHO WE NEED:

A systematic analytical person with a mature outlook to join our Hotline team as an Internet Content Analyst. The work requires strong computer and internet literacy and special attention to detail.

YOUR ROLE:

Salary scale: £20,491-£24,629 p.a. for a 35 hour week, non contributory stakeholder pension scheme, health plan, content allowance, 25 days holiday. You will need to agree to be CRB checked. (Not suitable for job share or part-time work).

Oliver looks for more. . .

OLIVER Jarvis heads for the second round of the German Touring Car Masters (DTM) at Oschersleben this weekend looking to build on his first foray into the international touring car series.

The Burwell driver was ninth on his Audi Sport Team Phoenix debut on his first trip to Hockenheim after starting an impressive eighth on the grid.

Jarvis was as high as sixth after the first lap before he was muscled back to ninth.

His two pit stops dropped him back to 16th but by the flag he was 40.720sec behind the winning Audi of defending champion Mattias Ekström (Sweden).

He said: "My start was great and I managed to move up to sixth place. In the first two corners, though, I had to ease up a bit, and my tyres collected some dirt which then caused my car to oversteer.

"Just as I was about to leave my pit box following my first stop, I had to stop briefly as Ralf Schumacher came down the pit lane which cost me a second. Bernd Schneider overtook me during the pit stop phase and the race became very tough.

"After the second pit stop, my Audi team-mate Mike Rockenfeller was really putting on the pressure. I was just one place off scoring a point and that was too bad – still, it was a good first race."

■ PORSCHE DO . . . Michael Caine in action

Caine still ahead

NEWMARKET driver Michael Caine retained his overall lead in the Porsche Carrera Cup GB competition after the third and fourth rounds in the 20-race season at Rockingham Motor Speedway at the weekend.

Caine finished third overall in both races to retain the early championship advantage he built by winning twice at Brands Hatch.

The next races in the Carrera Cup GB will be at Donington Park over the May Day Bank Holiday weekend.

Fry back to give Tigers rough ride

THE Mildenhall Barmy Army Fen Tigers are still searching for their first win of the season after their home meeting against Reading was washed out on Sunday.

Their next chance to get off the mark in the Premier League is on Sunday when they face the Isle of Wight Islanders on Sunday (4.30pm) with Paul Fry returning to West Row for the first time since his departure.

Mildenhall promoter Simon Barton said: "Paul Fry was a wonderful rider for us last season and he improved each time he took to our track.

" I expect him to be a very difficult opponent for our young side. The Islanders also have another ex-Tiger, Andrew Bargh, in their line up and I know he will want to do well."

Ben blowing hot on road

BEN Blowes provided the star turn as Newmarket Joggers reaped the reward of all the hard work during the winter to record some cracking times in the Flora London Marathon.

Blowes slashed 14 minutes off his previous best London time, finishing in 2hr 52min, his fastest marathon by two minutes.

However, he was not the first Jogger across the finishing line on The Mall. That honour went to Robin Clifford, who was a minute faster as the Newmarket club's biggest and strongest entry for the race revelled in the conditions.

Next man home was club chairman Keith Williams, who completed his sixth marathon in three years in 3:20. Jim Beeton's second marathon was completed in 3:25, while Simon Waterhouse crossed the line in 3:40, Jim Withers finished in 3:43 with Brian Munns battling on to stop the clock at 3:54 after suffering an injury soon after the 17-mile mark.

The Joggers' women's contingent were competing in London for the first time. Camilla Milbank was first home, also in 3:54, with Gemma Dawson just two minutes behind her.

Carolynn Anderson and Tracey Smith both finished in 4:20 with Mary Marsh clocking 4:25.

However, pride of place went to injury-plagued Dawn Laidlaw. Unable to run at all for six weeks, she looked a doubtful starter two weeks ago but showed physical and mental strength to finish in 4:09 raising more than £8,000 for Racing Welfare in the process.

Club spokesman Anderson summed it up by saying: "This was a great achievement by all the Joggers. The training is gruesome and hard work in the cold, wet dark nights of winter.

"It's one thing attempting to run a marathon but it's a true achievement to actually finish one.

"There will be a few stiff and sore legs in Newmarket over the next few days, but the smiles on the faces of those who have the medal to prove they did it and the memories that come from such a triumph will hopefully make up for the fact that stairs, walking and sitting is slightly daunting.

"To be part of such a national occasion is a wonderful experience. The club is proud of each and every one of its runners."

■ IT'S OVER . . . Mark Hatley, Carolynn Anderson and Neil Payne in buoyant mood after crossing the finishing line. CP

Reeves takes charge

NEWMARKET have edged closer to a return to Eastern Counties Division One.

Ali Walker, Chris Deaton and Stephen Green all scored tries, and Michael Reeves kicked three conversions.

"Michael just ran the show having stepped into the fly-half position," said coach Dave Sayer.

"A lot of the players hadn't played for several weeks because of the way the games fell. We only had two matches in seven weeks, so the fitness levels had to be good. The referee was half decent and let us play rugby.

"It's put us well and truly in second spot. We're down to a must-win."

Newmarket are two points clear of Southwold in the second promotion spot, with a superior points difference and one game remaining.

Domino are just spot-on

NEWMARKET Domino secured their place in the Suffolk Knockout Cup final by defeating a side who had beaten them in both the National League and the Suffolk/Essex League.

And their task was made all the more difficult by the handicap system, based on last season's league positions, which gave opponents Stowmarket a two-point lead in each set.

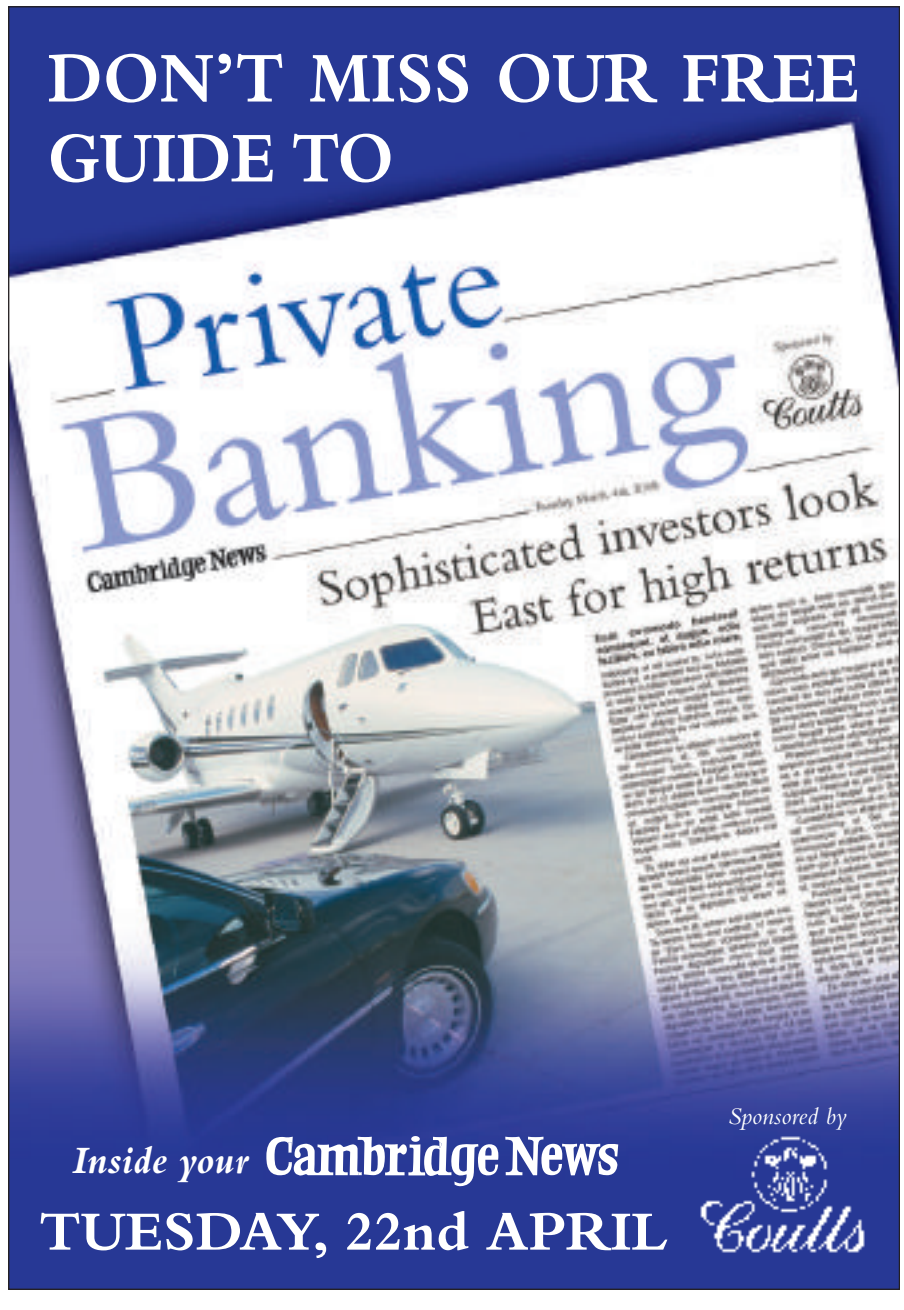

Domino quickly fell further behind in the first set against fluent rivals who went 1-0 up. However, a dramatic improvement in the second set, with new coach Rob Dovaston running new plays with Nik Mesanov and setter Ben Child, brought them back to level terms.

They grew stronger in the third – JP Davis' serving creating problems allowing Pete Gale to pick off the majority of loose balls – and Domino comfortably went ahead.

Stowmarket took advantage of errors to level again – despite Charles Reed's best efforts – leaving Newmarket to face a difficult 15-point fifth set already two points behind under the handicap sytem.

The team spirit of old re-appeared, though, with Paul Freeman's never-say-die attitude rubbing off on his team-mates.

Ben Child's variation on attacking plays helped them haul in the lead and they never looked back.

■ INFALLIBLE BY NAME . . . Infallible was promoted to 4-1 favourite for the 1000 Guineas with VC Bet after a scintillating display in the Leslie Harrison Memorial Nell Gwyn Stakes at Newmarket yesterday.
John Gosden's filly was given a lot to do by Fortune, who settled the 7-2 chance well out the back in the early stages.
But when asked to quicken up at the two-furlong marker she made eye-catching headway on the bridle before joining alongside Kylayne at the furlong pole and going on to win by three and a half lengths.
Gosden said: "She's a fine filly but she'll have to be damn good to beat the French grey (Natagora), who won a little race here called the Cheveley Park." PA

Eustace keen to see War go Global for 'a bit of fun'

Racing by Peter Scargill

COMPETITIVE action returned to HQ this week and the majority of the racing world is focused on finding clues for the forthcoming Classics.
However, they would do well to pay attention to today's Abernant Stakes, which featured a sprinter with serious potential.
War Artist, an Australian-bred son of Orpen, is trained by James Eustace (below) and his admiration for the horse is obvious. "The form he showed when second at Wolverhampton (in a Listed race) giving weight all round, makes him a Group Three horse at least," he said.
"He's got a very impressive turn of foot. He worked with Mark Tompkins' Lincoln horses (Smokey Oakey and Babodana, first and third respectively) and he looked really impressive that day."
Luck, they say, plays a huge part in racing and Eustace seems to have got his share with the South African Grade-One winner turning up out of the blue.
Eustace said: "A friend rang me up at 11.30 one night and said 'Can you take three horses from South Africa?' and I said yeah.
"They were originally on their way to America but one was sold, one went to the States and War Artist stayed here to be campaigned in Europe."
Coincidently the horse that was sold was Rippling Ring, who went on to be fifth in the Supreme Novices' Hurdle at the Cheltenham Festival for Paul Nicholls.
The adventure begins here, then, with the traditional starting point for many of the leading lights of the sprint division.
After today though what does Eustace have in store for his speedball from the Southern Hemisphere?
"The plan is to see how he goes in this race and then go for the Duke of York Stakes or the KrisFlyer International Sprint in Singapore," he said.

And Eustace has not ruled out a crack at the lucrative Global Sprint Challenge, a series of sprint races in various countries in which competitors get points depending on their finishing positions and an overall prize at the end for the highest scoring horse.
"I think that's a possibility," he said. "He's there to be raced and give his owner a bit of fun."
But it appears that the trainer also has plans to try his star over further in the coming months, with an entry in the Group One Lockinge at Newbury over a mile, already made.
Eustace said: "At some stage we'll try him over a mile. He's a very relaxed horse at home and you can literally rock him to sleep, so he could stay that far."

Jockeys blow chances

Lyes in call for Hall to add steel

Mildenhall Tn 1
Needham Mkt 4

RIDGEONS LEAGUE, PREMIER DIVISION

TONY Lyes had a day to forget as luck deserted Mildenhall in their 4-1 thrashing by promotion-chasing Needham Market.
The joint-manager saw goalkeeper Ben Nower (above) suffer a knee injury inside the opening five minutes after colliding with an opponent.
And despite struggling on for the rest of the first half, the shot-stopper was forced off at the break and Carl Murkin was forced to deputise.
Mildenhall were 2-1 down at that stage, with Alan Paynter scoring for the hosts, and things went from bad to worse when Matt Robinson missed a penalty and then scored an own goal.
Needham added a late fourth and Lyes said: "I think a few heads dropped after the own goal and that was quite disappointing. We had a bad start when Ben got injured. He was able to play until half time, but when we iced it his knee came up like a balloon. Carl has played in goal before and normally we would have a keeper on the bench. But the reserves had quite a big game, so we didn't have one on this occasion."
The joint-boss has now seen his side lose to Needham and leaders Soham recently and has urged them to show more determination when they travel to third-placed Wroxham on Saturday.

Newmarket Town 0
Felixstowe & Walton 2

RIDGEONS LEAGUE, PREMIER DIVISION

JOHN Olive spurned Newmarket's best chances as their four-game unbeaten streak came to an end.

The hosts fell behind soon after Olive had failed to hit the target with a free header from six yards.

Steven Bell, Mark Angel and Olive were all guilty of wasting good opportunities in the second period and the Jockeys were made to pay when the visitors scored again.

Assistant manager Tim Gleave said: "We played quite well, but their goals came from two mistakes by us. I think if we were still playing now, we wouldn't score.

"Our run's come to an end now, which is quite disappointing as we've been playing fairly well.

"We've been getting the first goal in games recently, which always makes it easier, and if John had taken his chance early on then it might have been different.

"Felixstowe are an experienced side, though, and it wasn't easy for us as they played 4-5-1 and their striker was very dangerous." The coach saw a potential ray of sunshine in their bid to beat the drop as fellow strugglers Swaffham have had a point deducted for fielding an ineligible player against Mildenhall on March 1. But that was quickly snuffed out by the 4-2 home defeat by Lowestoft on Tuesday, Dalton O'Brien and Olive scoring.

The Jockeys travel to Walsham Le Willows on Saturday.
